I tried `$(document).ready(function() { $("iframe").on("click", function() { alert("hello"); }); });` And also tried: `$(document).ready(function() { $("#dummy", document).on("click", function() { alert("hello"); }); });` Inside the iframe there is a dummy form (for testing purposes) with an onclick event that calls a javascript function. I tried using `trigger("click")` but the same problem is there. When the form inside the iframe has this html, all of the javascript works: If I remove the code from the iframe (and the onclick event) and add it to the body of the iframe, the onclick is triggered, but all of the javascript is not loaded, in other words, the browser returns the error: `jQuery171027157727321334646.js:2 Uncaught Error: Syntax error, unrecognized expression: [object Object]` If I remove the iframe, the onclick of the form (dummy in this case) is triggered, but the javascript does
