Construction of the Haiphong Expressway (Hapex) began at the end of the last century. According to the page about the highway in Vietnam War and the current situation of road, the new expressway is in the main line of 2020. Is it true? A: This article from the Vietnamese Department of Transport says it's a complete game changer to the Hanoi-Haiphong link. From the article: Road links Haiphong and Hanoi are better and more convenient with completion of the Haphe's (Haiphong-Hanoi expressway) first stage in 2020. Because of the importance of the expressway, especially in economic integration of the Northern and Central regions, Phase 1 from the southern terminus to the northern terminus is being built with construction of 10km of the highway and highway tunnels at the road links to Ba Xuan District in Hanoi. However, with more than 5km of highway construction and highway tunnels, the total length of Haphe's first stage will be over 10km. You can find various news reports on this expressway on the article you've referenced on these Google search queries: Haiphong - Hanoi expressway Vietnam Expressway Expressway Haphe Expressway It looks like the road is almost completed and construction began on a new section in August 2016. This map of the road should give you a pretty good idea of the road's progress. A: As you can see on that map, it's not all completed yet (they are under construction of part 3). Many of the tunnels have begun
